Ceramic Ornamentation from dan&mary's Monastery-HEMPorium

Each crafted artifact is individually unique, dated, initialed, and is symbolic of relics attesting our ethos existence from ancient to modern times. While many people have chosen to display these pieces as artwork of dan&mary's, these pieces are fully functional! If you do not drop, or heat the bowl areas to unevenly, these lead free glazed ceramics will provide a most pleasurable, natural, taste from your favorite herb.

Straight tube chillum reminiscent of 15,000 year old, hollowed out animal bones that were found, containing partially burnt herb, in Nan Non Tuk Thailand.

Carbureted chillum to give the effect of cupping a chillum as is common in Tibet and other countries that indulge religiously.

Long and short stem Peace Pipes symbolic of not only the smoking apparatus of the Native American's but also of the known peace invoking properties of a certain herb.

Liberty Heart Pendant on one side the liberty bell connected with a heart to symbolize humans love for liberty the liberty bell is also connected to a set of wings depicting liberties flight. On the inverse the heart connects with the herb that heals.7

Hand holding a bowl in gesture of an offering. This piece is symbolic of similar artifacts dating between 1000 b.c. and 600 b.c in and around the middle east, and in the United States as well. This is why it is the ornament that adorns the logos, banners, and flags of the Church Of Cognizance.

What we refer to as the "bathtub" is a work rolling many concepts into one. It incorporates a tray attached directly to the bowl, and will function as a water pipe by adding a tablespoon of water in the carbureted chamber.

Our replica of oil lamps found in the middle east dating around 700 b.c. these come with a hemp wick and can be filled with hempseed oil and lit to produce an amazing amount of light. A unique feature is the lamp can be refilled without extinguishing it because the oil does not emit flammable vapors.

The Church Warden is one of our first and most difficult pieces. Three sided it is done in bass relief two sides are replicas of our early medallions, the third side an inset bowl.
